Experience

hopkins carley

Advised a venture capitalist starting a new fund in the complex transfer of interest in the fund to a trust for the benefit of the client's children. The client was able to transfer significant wealth for the benefit of his children without triggering the punitive "special valuation" gift tax rules, without using the client's lifetime exemption from gift tax and without causing recognition of income and gain on the sale of the interest.

- Advised client on the structure of their charitable gift allowing the donation to be acknowledged currently by the charity, provided the donor with the security of ongoing positive cash flow, a charitable deduction against income tax and a deferral of capital gains on the appreciated property contributed to the trust.
- Assisted client by preserving her interest in a house left to her in a poorly-worded trust by bringing an action in the probate court and ultimately settling the distribution of the estate.
- Negotiated an errant trustee's resignation without resort to litigation and helped to defeat the client's brother's claim against a $30 million trust ensuring that the client's father's wishes were upheld.
- Assisted client in retaining litigation counsel on a wrongful death claim, worked with the client's litigators to negotiate a settlement preserving the client's assets while avoiding trial.
